Jury Commission.

New Story.

We this week give the opening chapter of a new story, which our readers will find of thrilling interest. It will run through the NORTHWEST for the next three months, and will be read by our readers with much delight. Everybody should read "The Face of Rosewell."

New Court Cases.

The following new court cases have been entered upon the court docket during the past week:
Sidney Winsor vs. Emil Zoll et al. Foreclosure of mortgage.
Edwin A. Langley vs. John F. Schults et al. Foreclosure.
Wm. Orthwein vs. Henry Curtis et al. Quiet title.
Harriet E. Knepley vs. Lucinda Honeywell. To set aside will.

Good Advice.

Hurry up your papering and painting, summer will soon be here, when you have the flies and dust, and other work will command your attention. You will find some very nice, new patterns of wall paper on exhibition at Saur & Balesley's Drug and Book Store, which have never been on sale before. The prices continue to remain low and the quality of the very best. The stock of cloth and paper window shades at this house is very large and complete. The goods are the very best and the patterns the very latest. No house, is or seems to be, complete without window shades. Should your house need painting, either inside or outside, this is an excellent time to have it done. Paints at this season of the year are nearly always as cheap and sometimes cheaper than at any other season of the year, and there are no flies or dust to mar it, or frost to prevent its drying rapidly.

$465 GOES UP IN SMOKE.

A McClure Business Man Uses an Old Stove for a Bank.

Mr. Ed. Feiser, of Feiser Bros., a business firm of McClure, on returning home Saturday night, found his person the sum of $465 in bank bills, which he thrust into an old stove, which had not been in use for some time, for safe keeping. Mr. Feiser arose early Sunday morning and repaired to his place of business. In the meantime his wife got up, and the morning being quite damp and chilly thought she would make a fire in the old stove, and make the house a little more comfortable, she little knowing with what valuable material she was kindling the fire.

SAWED IN TWO BY TRAMPS.

Awfal Fate of a Lumberman and His Wife in the Far Northwest.

From Naples, a small hamlet on the Great Northern road, about forty miles east of here, says a Spokane (Wash.) correspondent of the St. Louis Globe Democrat, comes the story of a deed which, for fiendish cruelty has but few equals in the annals of crime.

Jacob Herzner was the owner of a small sawmill at Naples, where he lived with his wife and son. There is no other neighbor within half a mile of the mill. On Saturday last the son John went to Benner's Ferry, and upon his return home in the evening he was confronted with a sight that froze his blood and heart.

On the floor of the mill he found his mother in a pool of blood, and a few feet distant, bound to the carriage used in conveying logs to the circular saw, was his father, dead, having been sawed in two. The son applied such restoratives as were at hand and succeeded in bringing his mother to consciousness, when she painfully and with difficulty related to him what had occurred.

About 4 o'clock in the afternoon she was sitting in the house, which is but a short distance from the mill, alone when two drunken tramps came to the door and demanded food, at the same time using very offensive language. She became frightened and succeeded in slamming and bolting the door before they could get in. The tramps then went to the mill and felling no one there they returned to the house and demanded admittance, and upon being refused they broke in the door. Finding their victim alone, one of the men originally assaulted Mrs. Herzner. In her struggles Mrs. Herzner emitted piercing shrieks, which were heard by her husband, who was in the timber a short distance away. He hastened to the house, and arrived as the second tramp was in the act of committing an assault. Being unarmed, he was severely attacked by the men, and after a terrible struggle, in which the tramps were badly bruised, Herzner was killed.

In order to cover up their crime they hit upon the plan of putting Herzner on the log carriage and sawing him in two. While they were engaged in their fiendish act Mrs. Herzner staggered to the mill and implored them to spare her husband, but was answered by a terrible blow on the head with a stick of wood in the hands of one of her assailants, which rendered her unconscious to what further transpired until her son returned. The tramps executed their horrible deed, and leaving Mrs. Herzner for dead they fled. The son spread the news to the surrounding settlers and a posse was soon formed to hunt down the men, but it is feared that they will escape under the cover of darkness, as they had several hours' start.

Takes Exception.

Wm. Wachman takes exception to the way a correspondent handles the schuetzenfest recently held at his place. He says the correspondent prevaricates in almost everything he said, and willfully lied when he reported that the proprietor himself was drunk. Mr. W. says he tries to conduct a respectable and lawful place, but admits that on occasions like schuetzenfests there are toughs to take advantage and conduct themselves in an unlawful manner, just as there are upon all public occasions.

As Usual.

Mr. E. S. Nichols, late of the Palmding Democrat, but who purchased the Democratic Times, at Wapakoneta, a couple of weeks ago, sold the plant to Henry Holterman, editor of the German paper Die Wapakoneter. Mr. Holterman, in turn, sold the subscription list and good will of the Democratic Times to F. B. Kampf, editor of the old reliable Anglaise County Democrat, which has been published at Wapakoneta for the past forty-six years. The Democratic Times was founded in malice in order to run out Mr. Kampf, but the effort, after a six years fight, failed.—Defiance Republican.

"A Pair of Kids."

At the rink opera house, June 2nd, Ezra Kendall in the well known comedy "A Pair of Kids," is sure to be entertaining as ever. There is a quaintness about his old countryman "Jiles Burton" that is irresistible and the dry humor he possesses seems to catch everybody. He will no doubt be able as heretofore to drive away any little melancholy that may chance to linger around anyone when the curtain is rung up, for he is a circus when he gets started. The thousands and one situations in "A Pair of Kids" are about as ridiculously absurd as the minds of man can conceive and people laugh because they cannot help it. The piece is now in its ninth year and is said to be funnier than ever, having been rearranged here and there to suit the demands of specially selected and strong comedy of comedians, among whom are Gilbert Sarnoy the funny school-ma'am of "Babes in the Wood," the well known eccentric comedian John Magee, Miss Jennie Dunn, the La Verde Sisters and other favorites. Guaranteed first class.

"Ten Acres Enough"

In no part of the country can the "Ten Acres Enough" idea be more fully carried to successful results than in the State of Washington. Ten acres, or less, covered with fruit trees, berry bushes and garden stuff, will make more than a living for a family. Fruits and vegetables can be grown tons to the acre, with markets in the lumber and mining camps, and for shipment to the east. Write to F. J. Whitney, St. Paul, Minn., for printed matter and further information.
